

“Every person is different, with different motivators and different wellbeing needs. To look after our people we must be flexible to our colleague’s individual needs, to give them the ability to focus on looking after the people we provide our service for.”

Brian Warren – Managing Director

Who we are

You’ll experience more than a contract cleaning company. We are a specialist provider of clean, hygienic, and safe environments. Founded in 1992, we now have 1,300 people across our cleaning and support teams and clean an average 2.5 m² every single day.

What makes us different is that we don’t just make environments clean, we take it two steps further by proving that it’s hygienic and explaining what we do to help building users feel safe. We support the essential services needed in our communities by caring for buildings in the education and local authority sector, so that building users can achieve their potential or fulfil roles in the community.

Our Values

Dignity Before Profit

We believe that dignity should never be the price of profit. By working with clients who share our values, we enable our people to earn a decent day’s pay for a day’s work, in an environment that values their contribution.

Work With Meaning

We believe that when people know that their work contributes to something beyond themselves, it builds self-worth and gives their job meaning. That’s why we’re championing the role of cleaning in the world, ensuring our people - and our clients - understand the difference they make.

Potential to Thrive

We believe that it’s only possible to fulfil your potential when your basic needs are being met. To learn, teach or work effectively, you need to know your environment is clean, hygienic, and safe. We create spaces where people can be their best, while also building a culture that allows our people to thrive.
